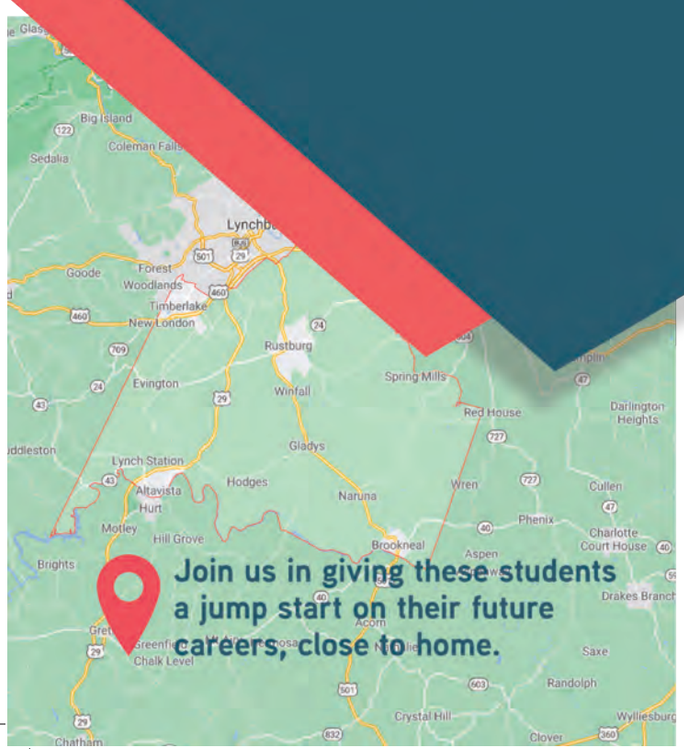
OUR MISSION

CCEF is a 501(c)(3) organization that supports quality educational programs that encourage and prepare students in Campbell County public schools to become successful citizens of Central Virginia.

We pursue our mission by providing financial support for Campbell County students participating in the CVCC Regional CTE Academy and the Future Center at Altavista Combined School.



DONATE

PROGRAMS WE SUPPORT

CVCC Regional CTE Academy

Campbell County High School seniors can earn free college credits or take the first steps towards a trade certificate through the academy. The classes prepare students for jobs in high demand in our region, including:

- Health Sciences
- EMT/Paramedic
- Welding
- Machine Tool
- HVAC
- Criminal Justice
- Cyber Security

The CTE Academy offers hands-on learning.

Students can earn 12-20 college credits while still in high school.

Certification programs include Machine Tool, Welding, and HVAC.

"...we got to go into a lab, use a stethoscope, do a dissection. It was really cool to get that hands-on experience."

Taylor Shelhorse is now a nurse in a cardiac step-down unit.

FUTURE CENTER AT ALTAVISTA COMBINED SCHOOL. In the brightly colored Future Center, advisors work one-on-one with high school seniors to help them explore and prepare for a broad range of post-secondary opportunities. The center offers college fairs, SAT practice sessions, FAFSA nights, help with resumes and job applications, and much more.

This center began in Fall 2021 through a partnership between CCEF, Campbell County Public Schools, and the nonprofit Beacon of Hope.
